

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

From Texas.

We have received additional files of papers from Texas by the Palmetto. We take the following from the San Antonio Western Texas of the 13th ultime:

FIGHT WITH THE ANGLOES.—Our fellow citizens Mr. J. W. Gillett, who left here on the 21st ult, on his way to Maj. Smith's train, returned on the 15th inst. from the Pecos River, having left that stream on the 1st. He had reached there on the 1st. About half an hour before Maj. Gillett left the Pecos, an express arrived from a train of twelve wagons loaded with corn, which were on their way down from El Paso to supply the train under Capt. John, of the 3d Infantry, then the Pecos taking the stores sent up under Maj. Smith. The corn and wagons belonged to Mr. Coons, who it will be remembered, owns the same opposite El Paso, the headquarters of Major H. C. Barnes.

On reaching the Guadalupe mountains, about ninety miles this side of El Paso, Mr. Coons who had only about fifteen men with him was attacked by a party of Indians, and were supposed to have killed some of them, but by retreating immediately the numbers could not be ascertained.

Of the Americans one man was killed. Mr. Clements Howards was shot in the arm, a valuable male Mr. Coons was riding was shot from under him, and his saddle, and to be worth $500, was taken by the Indians. Thompson a well known express rider, his mutton torn to pieces, and was reduced to a farewary ground for defense, and sent an express to El Paso for assistance. Two companies of the 3d Infantry came out from El Paso and escorted Coons train to the side of the Gila mountains. The express then left them and came to the Pecos.

The Apaches are said to be well armed, some of them having six shooters. Their great hostility is ascribed to the attacks on them by parties of Americans in the employment of the frontier States of Mexico, principally those under command of Chevalier and General Gosselin of the City. Capt. Johnson, on his way from El Paso, then this side of the Gila mountains, lost two men killed by the Indians. Solomon Garver, and John Wood. The body of one was found. Major Smith was to leave on his return to this place on the 4th, and Capt. Johnson was to take his departure for El Paso on the same day.

On the 4th inst. 59 miles this side the Pecos Major Gillett met a party of California, who had they were all well and getting on very well. They were James W. Hudson and family, John B. Green, and C. Hyde, James Maca, Jefferson Cooper, Wm. Moore. When they were informed of the attack on Coon's train, they determined to wait on the Pecos for the party with Capt. J. B. Brown, of Victoria. We have some four for their safety, as Major Gillett and Capt. Brown's party of 25 wagons and from 40 to 50 men, on the other side of the Neches, they had changed their route—were going to Eagle Pass, and thence throning to the Rio Grande. Riles of Victoria, who had been badly injured by a bullet, was still rather better, but little hope, however, was entertained of his recovery.

But Jim Gorland took command of the post at San Antonio on the 7th. Major Hudson, lately in command there, will have charge of Camp Lincoln on the Rio Grande in place of Col. Longstreet, who is ordered to take the Commissary Department at that post in place of Bvt. Maj. Sprague, the latter going to the Levee in command of his company. Capt. J. W. Hudson, the new command of the post, Frobisher, and Col. Farnsworth, will charge there, to go to Fort Craig in Hamilton's valley on the Colorado.

Lieut. of the Ordnance Department, arrived at San Antonio on the 11th.

The Government at Washington it appears by the following general order, is determined to protect the Indians from the aggression of the whites, and, while carrying out the provisions of the treaty with Mexico, to do all that is possible to put a stop to the massacres of Mexicans by the Apaches and Comanches on the frontier.

According to instructions received by the War Department, we are to so thoroughly root out every Indian as to make it impossible for him to live on the frontier, and to make it difficult for him to get away from the country.

Major Hudson, who was so strenuously opposed to the policy of the Indians, has now been detailed to Fort Verde, but it was thought she would get off. Two boys, the Boston, and Martha N. 2d were shot at Camp Verde, and the Boston has been taken to the hospital, and has no chance of recovery.

THE PALESTINE INDIANS.—We have already mentioned in our paper of Nov. 20, that the Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, had been captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.

THE APACHES.—We believe that many Indians, mostly numbered in their hundreds, were captured by the authorities at Fort Verde. This was due to the engagement between a party of Indians and Capt. L. E. Ranch, commandant of the post. The Indians, who were numbered in their hundreds, were discovered on one of the islands of the Platine three miles from Fort Verde, and were captured by Capt. L. E. Ranch, and Lieut. J. C. H. Jones, and Capt. J. B. Brown, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, and Capt. W. W. Law, and Capt. J. W. Hudson, from New Orleans, Dec. 21.